

Do You Work with Human Subjects?

If so, it is essential that you understand the IRB process and the regulations and ethics that govern this research.

Thursday, October 22, 2009
Noon-1:30pm
Room 307, South Hall

Ethics and Guidelines Governing the Conduct of Research Involving Human Subjects: An Overview of the Institutional Review Board (IRB)

This presentation:

- Will explain and demystify the IRB process and human subjects protocols
- Will give an overview of the history, ethics and regulations involved in the protection of human research subjects.
- Is intended for graduate students, postdoctoral fellows and research staff who intend to or are currently undertaking research projects involving human subjects.

Workshop Leader: Eric Mah, Director, Institutional Review Board Administration. No registration is necessary.

Sponsored by Office of Graduate Studies (Professional Development Series) & the IRB Administration

UCDAVIS